Jaime González

Web and Cross Platform Mobile Developer, Writer & Freelancer

Santiago de Chile
+56971417389
jaimegoweb@gmail.com

SKILLS

Python

I have worked extensively with Python in projects that range from games to a complete assembler. For web development I use Django and Flask.

Javascript

I have chosen the language of the web for many of my projects, and I feel quite comfortable using the features of ECMAScript 6 and the previous versions for web development. I use Node for my work, with Express and the Koa Framework.

Angular, React and Vue

Framework technology comes in many different flavours, and everyone has a favorite. Personally, I think each of them excels in a different area, and so I decided long ago to learn the three main frameworks, so that I can offer today different options to make projects stand out even more.

Ionic and React Native

For cross platform mobile development generally I use Ionic because it takes advantage of web technology such as CSS. But if you need superior performance it is hard to beat React Native.

Writing

I can produce SEO friendly, interesting and compelling articles for your website. I have been an avid reader and writer all my life.

EDUCATION

PUC, Santiago de Chile — Ingeniero civil de industrias, mención computación

PROJECTS

All projects can be viewed in my personal website and in my github page:

- Personal website: jaimego.net
- Github portfolio page: github.com/JaimeGo/portfolio-index

LANGUAGES

-Advanced English

-Advanced Spanish

-Basic French

PERSONALITY AND CHARACTER TRAITS

Responsability - If I accept one of your projects, it is because I know I can accomplish the task in the time I have been given.

Attention to detail - I will make sure my work fulfills all your requirements, from the first to the last.

Analytical mindset - I love to solve problems and have years of experience solving some of the most challenging problems in engineering in general.

Easy to get along with - All the above would be meaningless without the ability to communicate and the good will to actually help you with your project or task. You can rest assured I have what it takes to fulfill your expectations in this regard.